Term 4 week 4 2016

At the moment I haven't done as much as I would've wanted to be, I'm about halfway through my 100 ideas grid, I have some logo stuff done, I've done 1 inspiration and statement of intent. In the next 4 weeks I want to have at least set up my whole folio so that I have everything set up so I just have to fill everything in and not have to worry about the setup of the questions. I'm going to focus on doing the lengthy stuff like the theory and try get all the inspirations and all the hardware stuff.

Term 4 Week 8 2016

At this point I've selected all my inspirations and completed almost all the hardware and software analysis. The main challenges I've had to face has been procrastination. I want to have almost all of the folio done so that I can focus solely on the film making. I will be eliminating all distractions from my workspace so that I can work efficiently to get all the right content I need to complete the folio.

Term 1 week 04

Through the holidays I began starting to film the major project as I received the gimbal that I had ordered. This then allowed all my shots to look super smooth and shake free. As of now I have about 60% of my filming done. The next process in terms of filming is to further refine the story and just continue to collect footage of skating and try to improve transitions from scene to scene. I feel as though I have gotten a lot of filming done but really need to make sure I document all my progress of filming, editing, visual effects and etc.

Term 1 week 8

For this next upcoming submission I've focused more on my folio as that is one of my clear weak points in my overall major project. My main focus will be to improve the record of production as when I edit or film I always forget to take photos and screenshots of my process as I get in a tunnel vision state and am super focuses on editing and getting it done. For the next few weeks I want to try and improve the frequency in taking screenshots and documenting my production.

Term 2 week 4

At this stage in the production I've refined my story and am planning on reshooting some scenes and re editing my film partly due to losing some of the previous footage and losing the previous project file. Therefore I am now able to better refine the whole film and story by writing a new script, filming new scenes, adding new transitions and better the areas I lacked in the first edit.

Term 2 week 8

I've begun reshooting a lot of the scenes for my new film, have only just started indesign and looking at my folio again. I've found a song I really like and will am beginning to piece my film together. This time I've finalised the script so I'm able to edit the film to the script to even further draw more sense into the whole story and have visuals support the voice over. It's going to be a stressful next 2 weeks trying to get everything finished.

| FINAL EVALUATION |

Through the research stage it was fairly clear I was wanting to create a cinematic skateboarding film as all the inspirations were in some way skateboarding related apart from one. I feel as though from all the technology, software, materials and processes I had chosen to research helped shape and develop my final complete product. The research was an early and important stage as it further shaped lead my mind to an idea which was further developed within the development stage.

The planning and management stages in the production helped me out massively. It allowed me to stay organised and on top of things while also giving me an overview on what I'd done and what still had to be done. I wish I had stayed more to my timeline plan as I had become lazy through some parts of the year which caused me to have to rush through parts of my Project in the last minute. The finance plan also allowed me to budget and allow me to see how much can actually go into a project such as this. I feel with this knowledge that the finance plan has given me it will further allow me to be prepared for a production in the film industry.

After all the planning and management, the prototyping and testing that I conducted played a huge part in being able to refine my work and get it to the standard that I'm overall very happy with. Without any of the prototyping I feel I would have a very rough final film that is confusing and not following.

The sketching and idea generation process allowed me to see my project in a visual sense. This helped out a lot in terms of planning and seeing how the final product will come together. The sketching allowed for me to be able to further support my visual ideas for the scenes in my film as well as when I went into the production stage I knew exactly what I wanted to shoot and how I was going to shoot it. This made the production of my product very efficient and productive that resulted in me coming back with lots more usable shots.

To conclude, I feel my statement of intent definitely reflects my final finished major project. In my statement of intent outlined the intention of the project was "I want to create a documentary style of film that shows the lengths skateboarders take just for skateboarding whether it's traveling long distances or pushing their physical limits just to land a trick". I feel as though my project has done just that. I've created a cinematic at an industry standard showing the main aspects involved in skateboarding. Through feedback with my target audience I definitely think the film has made people want to try and give skateboarding a go as the film shows skateboarding in a positive light and making it seen and understood by everyone who may lack understanding.

I'm very happy and proud of what I have managed to achieve in a 3 term period as this is the biggest project I've ever made, it has challenged all my skills and helped me gain new skills that I will no doubt use in the future.
